Attorneys Will File Appeal For Irene On Monday

Outline Basis Of Plea For Commutation Of Death Sentence

DAGUE'S APPEAL ALSO TO BE FILED

Attorneys Assert Death Penalty Conviction In Response To Clamor

Charging that the death penalty conviction of Irene Schroeder was "in response to the clamorings of the prejudiced community in which she was tried," that the applicant was not accorded a fair and impartial trial, and that "the modern policy of the commonwealth is adverse to the execution of a woman," the appeal for commutation of sentence for Irene Schroeder will be presented to the state Pardon Board on Monday, February 2.

At the same time the appeal for commutation of sentence for Walter Glenn Dague will be laid before the Pardon Board. Both appeals are for the Pardon Board to commute the death sentence handed down in the Lawrence County Courts to life imprisonment. The sentences arose out of the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, a State Highway Patrolman on the Butler Road, December 27, 1929. The appeals will be presented by Attorneys Thos. W. Dickey, Ben Jarrett and Percy Allen Rose.

Right Name "Schroeder"

The appeal of Irene sets out in its first premise that her true name is Irene Schroeder. This is against the name Irene Schrader which was sometimes used in connection with her. The first section then sets that she was convicted on March 21, 1930 of first degree murder and later sentenced to death by Judge R. Lawrence Hildebrand and death in the electric chair.

Section two sets out that Irene Schroeder is 21 years of age, that her occupation is that of a domestic or waitress, that she is the youngest of fifteen children born to Joseph and Martha Crawford, and that she is the wife of Homer Schroeder whose whereabouts are unknown, and that she has been the mother of two children, one of whom, Donnie survives.

Section three and four set out that she had never before been convicted of any crime, and that she has not previously applied for relief from the sentence now in question.

Section five sets out the details.

SENIOR HIGH CLASS RECEIVES DIPLOMAS ON FRIDAY EVENING

Chief Address Is Made By Dr. Foster—Students

"Know something—do something—be something" was the gist of the graduation message Dr. Charles R. Foster, president of the Indiana State Teachers college and leading educator of the state, delivered to 119 seniors last night before they received their diplomas at the Senior High school's 54th commencement program in the Ben Franklin auditorium.

"You must more than know, you must more than do—it takes character," Dr. Foster said. "One may have knowledge, but with that alone he wouldn't succeed. He must have action, but even with knowledge and action his life couldn't be a success, for the basic groundwork is character."

Briefly, but interestingly, the speaker reminded the class of the rich opportunities ahead; that commencement time for them comes at one of the most interesting periods of the world has ever known, and that success is theirs for the asking if they will but take advantage.

Large Audience

In the school auditorium to hear Dr. Foster and to witness the traditional graduation formalities were 1,100 persons, a large majority of them parents or friends of those whose high school days were closing. The class, in commencement cap and gown, occupied a bleacher-like platform on the stage.

The evening's program, as it was noted at different intervals on the program, marked the fourth mid-year class to be graduated. January exercises were inaugurated in 1928.

Playing both the opening and closing selections last night was the orchestra of the high school, led by J. F. Replogle, the school's instrumental music director. Their opening number, "Poet and Peasant Overture," by Suppe, was followed by the invocation, given by Dr. A. J. Randless, Second U. P. church pastor. Dr. Randless also appeared on the baccalaureate program of the class last Sunday.

Stevenson Speaks.
Jack Stevenson, honor student, began his speech immediately after Dr. Randless' invocation, speaking on "The Industrialization of Soviet Russia." In the course of his remarks, enlightening from every standpoint, he told of the Russian five-year plan by which the country hopes to restore industry and government on a sound economic basis. All signs point to the materialization of their plan in three and a half years, he said.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Congress today was a house divided against itself, with senate and house locked in what may be a finish fight over the Robinson $25,000,000 food relief amendment.

"No compromise" became the battle cry of a large bloc in both chambers of congress. Some Republican leaders cast about for a means to avert the forcing of a special session after March 4.

Another step in the long drawn-out quarrel was scheduled today with senate and house conferees attempting to ease the differences of the two bodies.

House Supports Hoover
The senate is on record by a big majority for the appropriation of $25,000,000 for relief in drought areas and industrial centers, the relief to be administered by the Red Cross, or if it persists in refusing to handle the fund, by the Salvation Army or other agencies.

The house demonstrated it is still standing by President Hoover when it defeated 217 to 151, a motion to agree to the $25,000,000 fund. The fund to be administered by the President or Red Cross.
Declaring congress cannot end its labors March 4 until December without bolstering the charitable organizations now caring for hundreds of thousands in drought areas and more in cities. Sen. Robinson (D) of Arkansas stood ready to force a special session to accomplish his purpose.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 31.—The coterie of aerial daredevils whose spectacular exploits in the World War gained them undying fame was reduced by one today with the death of Captain Gunther Plueschow, Germany's outstanding ace of the air, who crashed in the southern Andes. His mechanic, Ernst Dreblow, was killed with him.

According to reports received here, the crackup occurred Wednesday at Lake Rica, near Lake Argentina, in the remote southern end of the Republic. The war hero and his mechanic were engaged on a map-making and exploration flight.

Meagre information indicated that they died as they had lived—in the spectacular manner of that heroic group whose members faced death with steady eye. Their airplane collapsed at a height of 2,000 feet, the reports stated, and both men immediately took to parachutes. The latter failed to open, however, and the captain and his mechanic fell to their death on the shores of the lake.

The bodies have not yet been brought out, but an expedition has been organized to penetrate into the remote region where the plane crashed. The remains of the aviator.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Four American women—leaders in professions once considered only for the male sex—today gave International News Service their reaction to the public discussion in Germany over the alleged "American menace" to the world through the increasing dominance of the American woman over the masculine species.

Dr. Gerhard Venzmer, German physician, started the discussion by declaring that some organic influence in the United States was making the male submit meekly to female domination.

Lucille Pugh, lawyer, said that women had not yet dominated men but would in time.

PLANE IS NEW YORK

Flight To Be Made By Way Of South Atlantic Because Of Weather

(International News Service)
LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Jan. 31.—The DO-X, world's largest heavier-than-air plane, carrying a total of 19 persons, passengers and crew, arrived here from Lisbon, Portugal, at 2:50 o'clock this afternoon (10:50 a. m. Eastern Standard Time).

With its arrival here the big ship had safely completed the first leg of the flight which is to carry it from Portugal to New York, via the South Atlantic and Brazil.

The big plane roared out of the north and descended upon the harbor of this island port considerably ahead of schedule, due to the fact that Captain Christiansen had "cut corners" in his flight here by coming direct to this place instead of passing over Funchal, in the Madeira Islands.

By taking the direct route Captain Christiansen clipped more than 150 miles from his projected flight, traversing a distance of only about 750 miles in spanning the water gap between Lisbon and this place, whereas the flight via Madeira would have rolled up a total of 930 miles.

Leaves Lisbon

(International News Service)
LISBON, Jan. 31.—Setting out on a 11,500 mile flight to New York via the South Atlantic and Brazil, the DO-X, giant German twelve motored flying boat, took off from Lisbon water at 8:08 o'clock (3:08 A. M. E. S. T.) this morning.

Captain Horst Merz, chief pilot, was at the controls as Captain Friedrich Christiansen, master of the ship, gave the signal for the departure. Lieutenant C. H. Schildhauer, American assistant pilot, was expected to take the controls after the ship was in the air.

The human cargo aboard totals nineteen. Thirteen make up the crew, the others being passengers.

The passengers are Max Sauev and Mans Etadhaagen, technicians of the Condor syndicate; Major Giacomo Brenta, Italian aviator; Stanislaw Krakow, representing Yugoslav air interests; Captain Fritz Hammer, German air ace and director of the Condor air mail; and Admiral Gaco Coutinho of the Portuguese navy.

The first four will leave the ship at Las Palmas, the first stop, Captain Hammer and Admiral Coutinho alone continuing all the way across the South Atlantic. Admiral Coutinho carries a dispatch from the Portuguese government to the Brazilian government.

Seven thousand gallons of gasoline and 600 gallons of oil were in the DO-X tanks at the hop off. Five extra fuel tanks have been installed on the passenger deck to provide

Plan To Start Chemical Plant At Early Date

Philadelphia Interests Will Operate Idle Factory Near Shenango Mill

HEARING HELD AT SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Delegation From Chamber Of Commerce Takes Active Part

Indications that the plant of the Westmoreland Chemical company, located near the Shenango tin mill, will be placed in operation at an early date, was a cheering development during an inquisition which was held by Deputy Sheriff William Reynolds at the sheriff's office yesterday.

The plant of the Westmoreland Chemical company here has been idle for some time, and the company has become involved in debt. One of the creditors, K. Williams of Philadelphia, pushed his claim, and as there were a number of others of a similar nature, an inquisition was asked. This inquisition was to determine whether or not the rentals from the plant, if operated, would pay off the claim in seven years.

Reynolds appointed R. H. Whaley, Frank L. Climefelter, L. S. Hoon, S. J. Chambers, H. P. McBride and O. E. Koons as inquirers and they set about to ascertain the status of the plant.

It was learned that the mortgage, which was originally for $75,000, had been cut down to about $17,500, and that the total indebtedness, including the mortgage and other claims, amounts to $24,604.84. Of this amount the only claim upon which legal action had been taken was that of Mr. Williams for $2,314.74.

While the inquirers were in session at the sheriff's office a delegation composed of A. W. Chilton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; City Solicitor Robert M. White, City Councilman Louis Genkinger, Robert Love and others, representing the chamber of commerce appeared and strongly protested against any action that might mean a sheriff's sale of the plant.

It was stated that a Mr. Shue, representing Philadelphia interests, has been here this week with a view to leasing and operating the plant. According to the arguments presented, the interests represented by Mr. Shue were willing to pay a rental of $4000 per year for the plant, and to start it at an early date.

As the claim of Mr. Williams was the only one which the inquirers had to consider, it was believed that it could be liquidated within the seven years prescribed by law in cases of this character. Taxes and other overhead were figured at $2,374.11, which would leave a yearly balance of $1,622.59 to apply on the Williams debt. Under this showing the inquirers recommended that the plant be leased and operated.

You're the JUDGE

Real estate wasn't doing so well that summer, nevertheless Mrs. Effie Zeeb, who owned a number of lots in a new section, decided she would like to sell some. So she placed some choice lots in the hands of an agent to be sold at $3,000 each. That summer and that fall, and indeed for almost a year, the agent could do nothing with them. At last he received an offer of $2,500 for one lot. He accepted a deposit of $200 on it and then wired Mrs. Zeeb, who had left the city, to see whether he could sell for that figure. She immediately wired back to go ahead and sell, and specified the amount she would like to have in cash, the balance to go on a note at 6 per cent. The agent notified the buyer and he came in to complete the sale. But when the papers were sent to Mrs. Zeeb to be signed, she answered that that lot had already been sold by another agent, and that the lot this agent had for sale was an adjacent one in the same section. The buyer read the letter in amazement. He felt he had made a purchase and was entitled to redress. So he filed suit.

space for sufficient fuel for the long hop between Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands and Fernando Do Noronha, the longest projected hop, a distance of 1500 miles.

Route of Trip
From Porto Praia the projected route is as follows:
Porto Praia to Fernando Do Noronha, 1500 miles
Fernando Do Noronha to Natal, Brazil, 150 miles
Natal to Bahia, to Rio de Janeiro, 1475 miles
Rio de Janeiro return to Natal, 1475 miles

Natal via Pan-American Airways route to Miami, with several stops, 1800 miles
Miami to New York, 1400 miles

No effort will be made to hurry the flight, which is considered experimental to test the serviceability of large heavier than air craft for commercial trans Atlantic flying. Even if the flight is successful it may be at least a month before the giant ship is seen in New York.

Several bags of mail are being carried. One bag will be dropped at Puncual, Madeira, if conditions are satisfactory.

A similar flight was planned for the Do-X last fall. At that time the route was to be via the Azores and Bermuda to the United States, that flight had to be cancelled when one wing of the Do-X was almost completely destroyed by fire while the ship was anchored in Lisbon harbor last November.

The present flight is being made via the South Atlantic because weather conditions should be more satisfactory, and also because the excessively long hop from the Azores to Bermuda is avoided.

No night flying will be attempted. If on any hop the Do-X has not reached her destination by nightfall it is planned to descend on the ocean over night and continue the following day.

get on top, and then instead of tramping men underfoot the way they have trampled us, we are going to give them a break.

"Man has always had the center of the stage—and some of them still think they belong there. There are still some 'fundamentalists' husbands who think all they have to do is to take a woman in marriage, place her under lock and key and consider her henceforth as nothing but his shadow."

"Man is to dominate" has been the clarion cry. They have devoured women, physically, spiritually and economically—pulled them apart and eaten them.

"But when women take the stage things are going to be different. We are going to take care of the men. After all, woman with the gift of motherhood, alone is able to understand humanity. She will rule for the good of civilization and man, undeserving of it though he be, will get a 50-50 break."

Dr. Mary Halton, physician, said: "It is no doubt difficult for Dr. Yeunger to understand us Americans. But a few facts may help the Germans whom he is trying to throw into a panic of fear that women will dominate."

"One fact is that the height of a country in the art of civilization is being measured today by the height of the achievement of its women. It may be difficult to understand a system like ours in which every woman is a queen. It is that they do not realize that to us, all of our men are kings."

"Let the German men take courage. They will find that when there is a queen in every home instead of a drudge, there is also a king instead of an industrial slave."

Should Lead
Louise Henry ("Lady Edison") inventor, said:

"It may be disloyal to my sex to say so but I believe that man should be in the lead at all times. 'The most wonderful thing that woman has been able to do has been to go out and inspire confidence in her work, and overcome the fear that men will laugh at her.'"

"This is a great enough achievement. To be man's equal is sufficient for any woman. There is no reason to try to be his superior."

"So far as the German doctor's observation that climate and food has an effect upon a person's mode of life is concerned, there is much to be said for that viewpoint. But to say that food and air will be the means of creating a super-feminine race is too far-fetched for words."

Rita Weiman, authoress, said: "What people eat and drink are much more the result of what they think than vice versa."

No Supremacy of Sex.
"There is no supremacy of sex in any of the products of civilization. Cooperation and not antagonism makes progress in the world, and any country not subscribing to that condition cannot hope for progress."

Mussolini "Forgets"
International aspects of the case were closed. The cable of Mussolini to the Italian ambassador, Noble Giacomini De Martino expressing satisfaction at the State Department's apology for Butler's address said the Italian premier had "forgotten" this incident.

Butler picked an old comrade in arms, Major Leonard, retired Marine corps officer, to defend him before the court martial. Leonard was with Butler in the boxer rebellion. He refused to discuss the case. He and Butler plan to confer as to defense tactics today.

Leonard has been called in by the Navy in innumerable legal cases. It was he who sat as judge advocate in the naval inquiry into the Shenandoah disaster several years ago. Prior to that time, and since he has acted either as judge advocate or defending attorney in naval court cases.

THE GRAB BAG

January 31, 1931.

A grocer told a customer he could have a seven-quart and a five-quart measure of vinegar free if he could measure an empty quart into a container without pouring any back into the barrel. How could the customer do it, with the fewest possible transfers, without using any tricks or markings? The barrel contains 120 quarts of vinegar.

Horoscope for Sunday
Persons born on this day are hospitable and fascinating.

Answers to Foregoing Questions
1. This is how the measuring is done: First fill and empty the 7 quart measure 14 times and you will have thrown away 98 quarts, leaving 22 quarts in the barrel, in 28 transactions. Then fill 7 quart: fill 5 quart in 7 quart: draw off 2 quarts: fill 7 quart: fill up 5 quart from 7 quart, leaving 4 quarts in 7 quart: empty 5 quart: transfer 4 quarts to 5 quart: fill 7 quart, fill up 5 quart from 7 quart leaving 6 quarts in 7 quart: empty 5 quart: fill 5 quart from 7 quart leaving 1 quart in 7 quart: empty 5 quart, leaving one quart in 7 quart: draw off remaining 1 quart from barrel into 5 quart, and the thing is done in 14 more transactions, making with the 28 above, 52 transactions. Or you can start by emptying 104 quarts and leaving 16 quarts in barrel. These 16 quarts can be dealt with in 10 transactions and the 104 quarts require 32 in the emptying (12 times 7 and 4 times 5 is the quickest way.)

MAPPING A FEW STELLAR OBJECTS

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
From 12 hours R. A. (Right Ascension) to 18 hours, there are several stars and constellations that should be thoroughly memorized as to location in the celestial sphere. Reaching southward from the northern celestial pole, midway between hours 12 and 18, is Ursa Minor (the Little Bear); then farther south between hours 12 and 14 are the stars in the handle of the Big Dipper, the star at the end being at 50 degrees declination north. Arcturus is at 20 degrees declination north and 14 hours 15 minutes R. A. Spica in Virgo is at 13 hours 20 minutes R. A. and 40 degrees declination south of the equator. ever. He would not discuss such subjects as the Wickersham report or the unemployment problem because he explained he had been importuned so much for interviews he did not want to do for one newspaperman what he would not do for another.

"How is your health?" he was asked.

"Fine," he replied with sincerity. "and I am very grateful."

Mr. Rockefeller, now 61 years old, certainly seemed to be in excellent physical and mental condition for a man of his age. His cheeks were tanned a light brown from the outdoors. His small, light blue eyes were bright with health. His step was surprisingly agile. He was at first for golf, having just arrived in his limousine at the Ormond Beach links with a party of friends and golfing companions.

"I feel just as I did five years ago," said Mr. Rockefeller.

"You should live to be well over 100 years old," the International News Service reporter suggested.

"Well, I'm not thinking of old age yet."

Later when he had finished eight holes of golf, the writer asked him how was his game. His answer sounded strangely familiar—so like the general run of golf addicts.

"Oh, it's pretty fair but there always seems room for improvement," he said.

Asked if it were true that he had cut down his daily round of golf from eight holes to six holes, he replied:

"Well, I don't stick to eight. I play six, seven or eight holes, depending upon how I feel."

Mr. Rockefeller wore long trousers a light gray jacket over a jersey and a light gray cap with flaps which he pulled over his ears and buttoned under his chin just before he started out on his round. He wore thick-lensed glasses.

Mr. Rockefeller continues to adhere to his strict diet regime. He rises at 7:30 a. m. His breakfast at 8:00 reads his mail and at 10:30 a. m. is on the links. At 1:00 p. m. he enjoys a light luncheon and later a motor ride. Dinner is at seven. He retires promptly at 10:00 p. m. He still transacts considerable private business. He sends and receives a batch of telegrams daily. His life is busier than most people imagine.

ATTORNEYS WILL FILE APPEAL FOR IRENE ON MONDAY

of the killing of Corporal Brady and Paul, with the preceding details of the robbery of the store of Wish Agert. This section concludes with a history of the capture near Phoenix, Arizona and goes into the theory of the defense which was not permitted, that of "irresistible impulse." This was also denied as a defense by the Supreme Court.

Reasons For Appeal
Section six sets out the grounds or reasons upon which the application is based. They follow.

1.—The verdict of the jury convicting the applicant of murder in the first degree and fixing the penalty at death was the response to the clamorings of the prejudiced community in which she was tried.

2.—That the applicant was not accorded a fair and impartial trial.

3.—That even if the jury believed that the applicant was guilty of murder in the first degree, she was denied the benefit of the defense of irresistible impulse to commit the crime for which she was indicted.

4.—That at the time of the alleged commission by the applicant of the crime charged against her by the Commonwealth, she was dominated and coerced by an habitual irresistible impulse to commit such crime.

5.—That the applicant did not fire the fatal shot, which caused the death of the deceased.

6.—That the modern policy of the Commonwealth is adverse to the execution of a woman.

The appeal concludes by praying the board to recommend to the governor that the death sentence imposed upon her be commuted to life imprisonment.

Dague's Appeal.
The appeal of Walter Glenn Dague is similar to that of Irene Schroeder's in the main. It sets out that he is 34 years of age, that he is the son of Albert L. Dague of Elm Grove, W. Va., and that he has four brothers and one sister, and that he is the husband of Theresa Dague from whom he is separated.

The same charge of a prejudiced community is made in Dague's case as in Irene's, and the same charge that a fair and impartial trial was not had, is made. It is also set out that Dague did not fire the fatal shot.

The two will probably be represented by their full board of counsel at the hearing before the pardon board on February 18th. They are represented by Attorneys Thomas W. Dickey of New Castle and former State Senator Benjamin Jarrett of Farrell, the two lawyers who defended them in the trial in March, 1930, and also Attorney Percy Allen Rose of Johnstown, Pa., who will assist in the commutation hearing before the Pardon Board.

Irene and Glenn are already under sentence to die during the week of February 23rd, 1931. It is within the Pardon Board's power to recommend that this sentence be commuted to life imprisonment, or they can refuse to act. If they refuse to act, the execution will probably take place on Monday morning, February 23, 1931 in the death house of the penitentiary at Rockview, Pa.

Getty Presides
President Getty presided over both the program and business part of the meeting, relinquishing his duties to his successor just as the festivities were getting under way.

During the business session at which time officers were named, reports of various county activities being sponsored by the association were heard. C. P. Cloak, agriculture committee chairman, briefly reviewed last fall's county farm tour. H. R. McCulloch, county farm agent was introduced at this point. Mr. Getty thanked him for his cooperation in arranging the tour.

The general committee responsible for the dinner and program was headed by Mr. Cloak, Ellwood City banker, with L. L. Gelbach and G. B. Hancher, also from that place, assisting.

The bankers plan to convene March 20 for their next meeting, at which time they will take dinner in the New Wilmington U. P. church and afterward listen to an address by an economist from Harvard university. The Mercer county bankers will join them on that occasion.

Senator Nye On Defensive

Senate Prober Is Occupying Different Role In Senate Just Now

PROBER'S EXPENSE ACCOUNT TARGET

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Washington Correspondent New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C. Jan. 31.—What price Senate investigation? How much do Senators, spending government money, pay for meals, tips, taxi rides, and "incidentals"? Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, president pro tem of the Senate, suggested that Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota answer such questions the other day by having printed in the congressional Record an itemized account of what money the Senator's campaign expense investigating committee had spent and how it had spent the approximate $100,000. Mr. Nye was offended. So hurt was the young progressive, in fact, that he was forced to leave the Senate chamber, to subdue his feelings in the privacy of an office where he could wrestle alone with his desire to punch Mr. Moses on the nose, and to return later with the admission that he thought he had control of himself.

"I have tried within the last hour, and I hope with some success, to subdue the spirit which first seized upon me when I knew of the very extraordinary practice that had been resorted to by the Senator from New Hampshire. As I say, I hope I have succeeded," young Mr. Nye told the senate in tones of studied resignation.

Then Senator Nye proceeded to explain why he didn't like to have his expense account printed in the congressional Record. He said he could see the pages of the Record bearing the report in the pocket of every political foe in his home state. He could hear tongues wagging and see lips moving in whispers, pointing out some little item of the account "showing how lavishly Nye lives when he is out on government money."

They will say, look at this item—a meal costing $2—and I know what the result will be, young Mr. Nye complained.

Conduct Peculiar
It is just a bit difficult to wonder why the senator from North Dakota who is so particular about certain practices indulged in by regular republicans in handling government funds, should object to having the public read how he and his committee spent $100,000 of the money collected from the public as taxes. Oh, of course, the senator argued that frequently he was forced to pay the entire luncheon bill of the whole committee, and that the report in attributing this expenditure to him was misleading, but the senator could have inserted a report of his own explaining those particular instances.

A perusal of the Nye expense account, appearing in the Record at the request of Senator Moses might prove enlightening to housewives who save the leftovers from yesterday for the hash today and who make remnants of a dish of mashed potatoes into potato cake in order to keep down expenses. They might feel like giving up their economies, and then on the other hand might be inspired to come to Washington with the idea of breaking a few umbrellas over the heads of certain legislators.

An item in the Nye account indicates that on May 7 the senator went to Chicago, returning to Washington on the eleventh. During those four days, according to the account, he spent $65.10 on meals, tips and incidentals, exclusive, of course, of train fare and hotel accommodations in Chicago. The account credits him with withdrawing from the government $16.05 as taxi fares during the Chicago visit.

Funds paid out to various members of the Nye committee as reimbursement for attending the hearing of the committee at Chicago in September are also filled with interest. Senator Dill of Washington collected $421 from the government for being present at the hearing for seven days. Senator Patterson of Missouri got $111.99 for appearing at the hearing four days, and senator Wagner of New York was reimbursed to the extent of $144.76 for five days presence at the hearing.

Senator Porter H. Dale of Vermont, the only New Englander on the Nye investigating committee got from the government $885.89 for a trip from Washington to Montana and return to Island Pond, Vermont, two trips from Island Pond to Chicago, and one trip from Chicago to Island Pond by way of Battle Creek and Washington.

Obviously, it is unfair to select Mr. Nye and his committee as a special target for criticism when special congressional committees absorbing government funds are many. Probably the young senator from North Dakota and his colleagues weren't any more lavish than the members of the special Red investigating group or those of that now famous lobby investigating committee.

The moral of the Nye story seems to suggest that itemized accounts of expenditures made by any and all committees should be made available to the public. When a committee is given $150,000 in taxpayers' money—such as was the Nye committee—it appears only fair that the payers of those taxes should be able to learn what their money is being used for.

Emma Scaler Of Toronto

(International News Service)
NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 31.—The skeleton of a woman found on the shore of the Niagara River three miles above Queenstown, Ont., was tentatively identified today as that of Miss Eva Scaler, who disappeared from Toronto in September, 1925.

Identification was made by articles found near the skeleton, including a comb and a purse, Provincial police said.

The skeleton was taken to police headquarters pending further identification by relatives of the missing woman, expected to arrive here within a few days. Remains of the woman's body were found by a workman clearing the brush along the river's edge. The condition of the bones indicated they had laid undisturbed for many years.

Church Members Are Sued For $200,000

Man Charges Reformed Mennonite Church Members
Of Alienating Wife

(International News Service)
CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Jan. 31.—Charging alienation of his wife's affections, Adin S. Shank, of Salt Lake City, a former Franklin county resident, today had on file here a suit for $200,000 damages against a dozen members of the Reformed Mennonite church.

Based on the suit, it was stated by B. L. Hessner, one of Shank's counsel, lay in the action of his wife who refused to live with him after Shank had been dismissed from the church for refusal to give up to the Mennonite elders stocks and bonds inherited from his father.

According to Hessner, Shank attempted to win his wife back. When he failed, the attorney said, Shank moved to Salt Lake City, where he obtained a divorce on grounds of desertion on September 1, 1929.

The court ordered a rule issued requiring the defendants' answer to the suit within fifteen days.

Fire companies from Wellsburg, W. Va., and other communities bordering on the Ohio River were summoned to fight the blaze which threatened to spread through the business district.

The Hub department store, adjacent to the gutted building, was damaged by the flames.

Wetmore Moves To Higher Post

Goes To New Position
At Youngstown

DYE TRANSFERRED, NEW CHANGES SHOW

Charles I. Wetmore, chief clerk of the Pennsylvania railroad's freight office here, was today promoted to the chief clerkship of the company's Youngstown freight office, effective February 1. Succeeding Wetmore here will be L. E. Hart, assistant agent at New Wilmington junction. He comes here for duty Monday, the same day that Wetmore assumes his Youngstown work.

The only other transfer having a local effect is the promotion of John E. Dye, agent at the Cherry street station here, to succeed V. C. Smith as agent at Struthers, O.

Besides the promotion of C. C. Crow, agent at Warren, O., to the post of supervising agent, Conemaugh division, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, the other changes are:

Daily Digest

which detracts vitally from the substance of its report. The CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST calls it "a true epitome of the whole body of hypocrisy which is called prohibition," and remarks that "it would, perhaps, have been too sensational if a straightforward, clear and courageous conclusion had been returned by a group of men who for a year and a half had been engaged in exploring the fetid swamps of prohibition." The ST. LOUIS TIMES concludes: "Instead of being an endorsement of prohibition, the findings are quite the opposite. Ten out of 11 of the commissioners in one way or another suggest revision or repeal as a way out, with enforcement until such day as a substitute has been found. If the die-hard prohibitionists find any comfort in the decision of Mr. Hoover's hand-picked board they are welcome to it. The facts are otherwise and the future will prove it."

"The average man, in his attitude and thinking," remarks the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, "is as frankly puzzled as is the Wickersham commission in its contradictory findings. We in Virginia were not satisfied with what we had in saloon days, and voted to change it. We are not satisfied with what we have in the days of the bootlegger, the moonshiner, the rum-runner, and the law evader. But as yet no leadership has developed to suggest a way out of the dilemma. We are going back to what we had. Neither will we be content much longer to continue the unfortunate and unsatisfactory conditions we have now. The extremes of prohibition intolerance are having their inevitable reaction."

"Turtle" Driver Latest Menace To Motorists

President Gable Condemns Drivers Who Operate With Windows Closed

INCREASE HAZARDS DURING WINTER TIME

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 31.—A new name for an old pest, the "turtle driver," has been coined by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation.

This applies to the motorist who drives behind closed windows or tightly-fitted curtains and fails to signal his intention to stop, start or make a turn, according to S. Edward Gable, president of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation. State unit of the A. A. A. Mr. Gable declared that such drivers are in the same class as the "street ostrich," the pedestrian who blindly crosses the street with his head tucked in his coat collar or his eyes glued on a newspaper.

"Cold weather is a season of traffic hazards," the Federation head continued, "and motorists should attempt to reduce them to a minimum, instead of adding to them by failure to signal their intention to deviate from the flow of traffic. When driving through town or cities or in traffic on the highways the window at the driver's seat should be open sufficiently, even in the coldest weather, to enable the operator to give signals. It is an open car, with curtains, the arrangement should be such that the operator can signal his intentions. Signals should be given from the left side of the car during the last fifty feet before turning or stopping."

Mr. Gable cited Section 1012, Article A, of the State Motor Code as follows:

"The driver of any vehicle upon a highway, before starting, stopping or turning from a direct line, shall first see that such movements can be made in safety and, if any pedestrian may be affected by such movement, shall give a clearly audible signal by sounding the horn, and whenever the operation of any other vehicle following may be affected by such movement, shall give a signal, as required in this section, plainly visible to the driver of such other vehicle, of the intention to make such a movement."

"With motor traffic in winter as heavy now as it was during the height of the summer touring season a few years back, there is urgent need for watchfulness on the part of the person at the wheel," Mr. Gable said. "Drivers should at all times keep their thoughts on the operation of the car and it is the duty of all to make certain that they are not responsible for unnecessary distracting the attention of other drivers. This is particularly important when ice and snow abound and the utmost concentration is necessary to assure safe travel."

The Federation head urged motorists to cut down speed when driving conditions are bad, but advised against what he termed overcaution. "By this I mean trailing along at a snail's pace, yet holding to the center of the road," he explained. "The slow driver in the middle of the road is a greater hazard to himself and others than the one who keeps going at moderate speed. Of course, one may go slowly if he desires, but he should keep well to the side of the road. Forcing cars out of their path in order to pass at moderate speed is dangerous at any time, and particularly so when ice or snow cover the highway."

Electric Lines In New District

Farmers In Princeton And Plaingrove Districts Get Electricity

NEW POLE LINES ARE CONSTRUCTED

Through a co-operative arrangement effected between the Pennsylvania Power Company and the farmers residing south of Princeton, and in the Plaingrove district, electric light and power are now possible in these districts. The current is already on in the Plaingrove district, but south of Princeton the pole line is not quite completed.

For some time the residents in question have been desirous of getting light and power. The distance of the farms in question was a long ways removed from pole lines and the expense of installing pole lines heavy.

Equitable Agreement
After some conference in the matter, L. B. Round, manager of the Pennsylvania Power Company presented a schedule of costs to the farmers, together with certain pole placement requirements, and these were met in a hearty spirit of co-operation.

Instead of overbuilding existing telephone lines, an expensive procedure, the company agreed to erect pole lines with the poles three hundred feet apart. Instead of building the line near the highway, it secured permission from the farmers to put the poles in their fields, back far enough that there would never be any necessity of moving them, even though the highway in question were widened very materially. The wire used to carry the current is a stranded aluminum wire, cheaper in cost than copper wire, but efficient.

The agreement between the Pennsylvania Power Company and the farmers, represents as fine a piece of co-operation between a public utility and citizens as has been seen in many years. The minimum charge placed upon each user is one that is agreed by the users to be fair and equitable. The company assumes all cost attendant upon the erection of the pole lines, but the minimum charge is increased over that of city users of light and power, with the idea that over a long period of years, the company would be reimbursed in part, for this expense.

Through the installation of power lines in the districts mentioned, the farmers will be enabled to use conveniences which have heretofore been denied them. Electric lights, washing machines, sweaters, electric radios, electric clocks, electric refrigerators, all of these are made possible by the strands of wire that reach to their homes from the power stations.

Car Owner Denies He Struck Woman

Reports To Police That He Was Not In Vicinity Of Eintracht Hall

Denial was made to police last evening by the owner of the car, whose license number was given to police as the driver of the car which struck Miss Christine Bausman near the Eintracht Hall early yesterday morning, fracturing Miss Bausman's leg.

He appeared at the police station last evening after reading the account of the accident in The News, and stated that he could prove that he was not near the Eintracht Hall. He believes that Mrs. Elly Rohm, who was with Miss Bausman, was struck confused the number and did not get the numerals right.

It is claimed by officials of the Eintracht Society that the women had not come out of the hall, before the accident, but were walking past there.

SENIOR HIGH CLASS RECEIVES DIPLOMAS ON FRIDAY EVENING

is no stranger to the city, having been here on numerous occasions before.

Dr. Foster Speaks.

Responding, Dr. Foster said in part:

"This is a great honor. I feel to be here tonight. I accepted Dr. Green's invitation to speak immediately on receiving his offer, for I always feel it a privilege to be in New Castle. I have a real interest here.

"Your former superintendent, Dr. Ben Graham, and Dr. Green as well, have long been my close friends. I happened to be principal at the Latimer junior high school in Pittsburgh at the time the junior high plan was making itself known here, and by the way, it's after that same school that this building we're in tonight was modeled. So naturally I have an interest."

Dr. Foster announced no subject, preferring to speak from a general standpoint. Speaking particularly for the graduates, he congratulated them upon their graduating at such a time in history, telling them why he considers them fortunate.

But One Regret

Continuing, he read to them the words of an aging college president which told that in spite of his happy, useful life, he had but one regret to make, that his life was drawing to a close. That was that man's viewpoint on the present, and Dr. Foster said he can understand why he regrets it.

Here at this point the college president took his auditors back a quarter of a century, recalling how things have changed in every phase of living. Then he compared it with our life of today, declaring that hundreds of improvements have spread their benefits upon us in bountiful fashion and will continue to. That's his one reason for thinking the seniors are fortunate.

Likewise did he picture them fortunate for their present public school systems and colleges, which he said are the finest in all the world. He urged them to progress ahead, to study and learn.

Praises School System

The New Castle school system came in for praise at this part of the address. His congratulations were went to the school board and the citizens whose deep interest in public school education, to his way of thinking, is manifest by the magnificent buildings that now stand.

He noted the rapid change that has come over public school education since the "aristocracy of brains" period of 40 years ago, when attending high school was possible for only a favored few. Within less than half a generation this has changed, statistics showing that 75 percent of all boys and girls of high school age are attending high school.

In closing, the speaker left with them the thought that "whatever any hand finds to do, do it with thy might." He told them to be the best of whatever they are; to work for success not alone for the reason of sitting in the high, lofty places. He wished for them, and he said he conveyed the feeling of the audience, and the success in their future work.

Miss Dorothy Sankey, member of the graduating class, favored the audience with a delightful piano solo after Dr. Foster's address. It was entitled "Polichinelle" by Rachmaninoff.

Present Prizes

Featuring next were the presentation of prizes which local patriotic organizations offer to outstanding seniors at such commencement. The seniors at such commencement. The Perry chapter of the Daughters of 1812, through Mrs. E. F. Toepfer, who appeared for them, presented a $5 gold piece to Miss Margaret Wallace for a winning history essay she wrote. Mrs. J. B. Hund, in behalf of the Business and Professional Women's club gave Miss Nellie Brady a $10 gold piece for general excellence in English during her high school course.

"Man and Machinery" was the subject of William Shira, another honor student. The audience listened intently to the honor student's message, which centered itself around the development by inventions of the industrial world of today. He declared it brought both benefits and difficult problems, among them unemployment. Our task now remains to become masters of the age we have developed.

After Mr. Shira's address was over, Dr. Green spoke briefly and then introduced Daniel B. Woolcock, president of the city's board of education. A moment before Dr. Green had told Mr. Woolcock that the class had completed its work to the satisfaction of the authorities and was entitled to the diplomas which he asked Mr. Woolcock to present. The seniors filed one by one along the stage and received their certificates from the board president.

Dr. A. J. Randles pronounced the benediction an instant after the last diploma had been presented, and the audience struck up an exit march as he program closed.

Another class of the 1931 section will be graduated in June, with probably 190 receiving diplomas at that time.

Life Threatened, Constable Charges At Hearing Today

Butcher Knife Wielded By Negro In Green Street Home; Case Goes To Court

Arthur Davidson, about 40, Negro, of 320 Green street, was held for March term of county court following a hearing in Alderman Walter T. Hamilton's office this morning on charges of felonious assault and battery, and obstructing legal process, preferred by Constable John W. Miller of the Fifth Ward.

The charge grew out of an altercation which took place in Davidson's home at 11 o'clock Thursday morning. On the witness stand in the alderman's court today the constable testified that the defendant had threatened his life with a butcher knife.

Determined to curb obstruction of legal processes, a subject of discussion among city aldermen for some time, Hamilton continued the hearing until this afternoon when bail of about $500 will be furnished by the defendant, it is believed. It is the second time within a few months that a constable working from Hamilton's office had preferred charges against persons alleged to have halted legal process. Recently DeGriff W. Robinson, another constable, was struck by a business man in Ellwood City. The case was taken to court.

On the stand this morning, Constable Miller questioned by defense counsel, testified that he had attempted to exercise a writ from Hamilton's office on Davidson. The amount of money involved was $50. Davidson, Miller alleges, ordered the constable out of his home after entry had been made. The constable refused to leave until the levy had been completed.

Davidson, the constable testified, then went into a kitchen pantry, grabbed up a butcher knife and started for the visitor. The constable drew his revolver and the negro dropped his knife. Miller then put him under arrest and attempted to handcuff the prisoner. Davidson, Miller alleges, fought back and the constable used his blackjack to overpower the negro.

The charges were drawn up after Davidson was brought to the alderman's office in the constable's automobile.

The office of Alderman Hamilton was crowded this morning with friends and neighbors of the defendant, who came to the hearing.

Ask Appointment Of Tax Collector

Pulaski Township Supervisors Present Petition To Judge Hildebrand Today

John Neal and Harry Thomson, supervisors of Pulaski township, presented a petition to Judge Hildebrand this morning, relative to the appointment of a tax collector for Pulaski township. The late Herman H. Knox was elected to the position, but was killed in an accident before he qualified. The county commissioners, according to the petition, appointed Mrs. Emma W. Knox, but she was never furnished with warrants or duplicate, and had filed no bond. It is claimed that the appointment of Mrs. Knox was without authority. The court is asked to declare the office vacant and appoint a tax collector. A rule was issued on Mrs. Knox to show why the office should not be declared vacated. Hearing will be held on February 16.

Farrell Young Man Admits Being Paid To Admit Offense

Mike Budanko Admits Councilman Balach And Others Were To Pay Him To Take "Rap"

(International News Service) MERCER, Pa., Jan. 31.—With testimony of Mike Budanko, 20, of Farrell, that he was to receive payment for taking the "rap" in a liquor case on the record, the trial of John Balach, Farrell councilman and chairman of the police committee, Andrew Podolsky, an undertaker, and Rudolph Milic, a barber, today moved into its third session.

Budanko testified in court that he was promised the sum of $100, payment of his fine and costs, and assured that he would be given a "trusty" position in jail if he in return admitted the offense which occurred at the Jugo-Slav dance in the Croatian home last October 22. It was charged by the state that Balach, as head of the club, had rented the hall for the dance. Prohibition officers raided the dance rooms after a mysterious telephone tip.

Liquor found in a pitcher, was said to have belonged to Balach by a janitor who testified he loaned the officer the receptacle.

Budanko, brought to the police station with several others arrested later, admitted ownership of the liquor. He said the three men visited him and promised him the payment and other rewards if he would "stick to his story."

When remanded to the county jail, Budanko said he became disgusted and promised to tell the entire story to officers.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Some of you who take your driving on city streets or on main highways may have gotten the idea that the country roads aren't in such bad shape. They're not, they're terrible. So muddy, or were yesterday that it's a wonder an ordinary car can get through, and when it does, it looks as though it had been dipped in giant bath tub of mud.

Took a little ride out through the Princeton district, far back from the main highway, and on down towards Eckert's bridge. And customers, the condition of the side roads is something you can't describe adequately.

Not just ordinary mud, but a semi-liquid mass that squeezes up through the wheels, splashes onto the windshield, and in a hundred yards gives any color of a car a covering of slimy sepi.

One side road in particular was a dandy. Far down, we could see a small car chugging along, throwing out mud like a rotary snow plow or an ocean liner plowing its way through an agitated sea. It was a battle, with the car gaining ground about three yards to every down.

For a time it seemed as if that viscous mass would hold the car in its clutches, then a little extra effort would gain a couple of yards. Radiator steaming, engine pounding and mud sheeting out on both sides. Finally after a battle, the car made the ash road and went on its way, looking for all the world like a motion picture comic who has just fallen spread eagle into a mortar box.

Early plowing has begun out that way, and maybe this statement won't get some denials. But it's true. At least one farmer had part of his field plowed up—why, I don't know—but anyway it was plowed. Farther down the road a herd of hogs, or maybe you call that a drove, was out sporting around, rooting with all the enthusiasm of youth.

And still farther down a family of sheep (or is that a herd) was out in the field, munching on tid bits they had overlooked last fall. There was a day when those sheep were nearly white, perhaps, but yesterday they looked as though they had been doing a heavy order in a hot mill.

Some of the terms concerning the animals may be slightly confused. A full sized argument developed here in the office as to what you call a collection of cows, of hogs, of sheep, of chickens and of bees. Pick out your own.

There's a safety first driver here in New Castle who believes in going prepared. Not for him just an ordinary set of chains and a spare tire. He carries all kinds of tools, and as an adjunct to his traveling tool kit he carries some flares.

Regular railroad red flares, guaranteed to burn 30 minutes, and whenever he gets a flat tire, walks back 50 yards and places one of the flares on the side of the highway. Next thing he is going to add is a shovel and a burlap bag. The shovel for spreading ashes in front of his car and the burlap bag for getting him off ice that is too much for the wheels to get traction.

What he should have is a boy along with him who would act as a flagman. Carry a red lantern and a cowbell, or say have a set of lights in his hat.

Welcome To Be Given To New Members At Senior High School

Senatus Romanus, the Latin honor organization at the senior high school, will welcome new members at its first meeting in the new semester. They will be the students of outstanding achievement in the senior high school Latin classes. Of this club the officers are as follows: Tom Hawkins, Consul; Charles Kay, Proconsul; Jonathan Brown, Quaestor; and Angeline Castrucci, Scriba.

The vergil honors as would be expected went to present members of Senatus Romanus; these young humanists started with honors or honorable mention in the junior high school tournament three years ago and have kept their work at the same high standard ever since. They have now finished the full preparatory course for college entrance in Latin. The award of Summa Cum Laude goes to Angeline Castrucci who also won the medal for the Vergilian notebook contest in the fall. The Magna Cum Laude and Cum Laude go to Julius Bloom and Thelma Hemphill respectively.

Latin Three honors were won by Charles Kay, "Summa"; Jonathan Brown, "Cum Laude"; and Frances Aiken, "Magna". Of this group Miss Aiken is the newly elected member of the Senatus Romanus.

Latin Two honors were won by Gertrude Graham, "Summa"; Jean Wimer, "Magna"; and Dorothy Cromie, Stella Niemczith, Anna Maxine Kennedy, Grace Bell, Nettie Irene Mann, Alice Jane McCune, Lois Mae Curry, William Kelly, George Muse, Mary Jane Metzler all were Cum Laude students. These are all newly eligible to Senatus Romanus. Virginia Callahan, Alice Ebeling and Doris Leonard earned an honorable mention.

Get Ready For Breeding Time At Game Farm

Will Raise Reeves Pheasants
For Distribution In Pennsylvania
Woods

WAGE CONSTANT WAR ON VERMIN AT FARM

Although the breeding season is the busiest time of the year at the Jordan State Game Farm near Harlansburg, there is plenty to be done during the winter time. H. J. Sines and his assistants at the farm find they are now busy building new fences, repairing the old, and getting ready for the breeding season which is only a few months off now.

The hens will start laying about the last of March or first of April, and the first eggs gathered will be shipped out to other places for setting.

About the first of May, the workers at the farm will start setting the eggs for their own hatching, and things will start to perk up a little more.

An innovation which will be tried out this year will be the raising of Reeves pheasants, a yellow, white, and black colored bird with an extremely long tail. Twelve tricos, a cock and two hens, are expected to arrive at the farm most any day now, and will form the basis of the flock to be used in this experiment.

It is expected to liberate them in the woods of Pennsylvania for the hunters of the state.

Vermin keeps the employees at the farm on the jump at all times, as serious inroads would be made on the flocks kept at the farm for breeding purposes. Hawks are the chief enemies of the fowls which must be battled at the present time, and a great number have been caught and killed this winter.

Representation Would Be Based On Number Voting

Massachusetts Congressman Introduces Measure In Congress

By ARTHUR C. WIMMER
Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 31.—Representatives from Pennsylvania in the House would be apportioned during every period of 10 years according to the number of citizens in the State who voted during the two presidential elections preceding the apportionment, under a joint resolution just introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman George Holden Tinkham of Massachusetts.

The number of voters in the Keystone State during the two preceding presidential elections would be averaged and the State's representation would be apportioned according to the ratio of this average to the corresponding average for the country as a whole during the same elections, as provided for by Tinkham's measure.

The first apportionment under the congressman's resolution would take place any time within four years after the ratification of the article. Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan recently submitted to the Senate a survey prepared for him by the census bureau showing the mythical apportionment based on those who voted in the 1928 presidential elections. Congressmen differ from that of Vandenberg's in that it would be based on the average number of voters during the past two presidential elections.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Child Expert Agrees Accomplishment Charts Are Best When Simple

Veteran Kindergarten Teacher Lauded By Doctor Myers
For Method Of Recording Progress
Of Children

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

"DEAR DR. MYERS: I just picked up the evening Script and found that you really like to hear from us."

"This is from a kindergarten teacher who is beginning her 36th year, 33 in the one building, and still loving it."

"We had a round table today, and the subject came up of some kind of a record for the growth and accomplishments of the children to show to parents and help in promotions."

"Of course the question comes up almost annually, and is such a delicate proceeding that it assumes proportions and dies. Our schools are large, attendance good, and keeping records or charts only one more duty, along with banking, milk, iodine, weighing and measuring, etc. No one seems able to make a simple chart which can be used."

"What do you think of these headings: Health—Attitude—Co-operation—Ability under five headings, Music; Poems; Stories; Games; Handiwork—and last and most necessary, Originality. I thought of making a chart and checking with gold stars as the quickest and most attractive. Endless books have been written on this subject of checking growth, but we must have it simple."

"I fairly gloat over your Parent Problems, and feed them to every parent. The joy in being an old maid is in watching parents perform."

Answer: I like your idea of the chart and agree with you that such matters must be very simple. In your sympathetic contact with parents I know you are doing a great deal of good. You seem to live for the little children you teach. Many more years of health and happiness to you.

A man teacher of violin also writes: "Dear Sir: Your articles on Parent Problem that are printed in the local paper, I read with great interest. I read them especially to get your viewpoint on matters pertaining to the instruction of small children. I am an instructor of violin in this city and I find your articles a valuable help in my work. Yet many of your viewpoints in regard to child instruction I have followed many years, because they were my own ideas."

"Your recent article on 'Music,' wherein you used your own children as an example, was especially interesting. I believe the idea you wished to convey to the parent was that the parent should make the decision in regard to children's music study and not leave it entirely to the child's judgment. Also that a parent should begin the child's musical education at age of 6, 7 or 8 years."

Answer: Yes. Then he suggests a number of topics for discussion. Some of these I hope to cover in the future.

Another Side of the Story

"We want good food and short hours!" cried the Black Ants, in chorus.

"Fair enough!" declared big ant, stepping out of the crowd. ("The Chief Engineer!") Lively whispered to Peter.

"We Black Ants are willing to work, and work hard, but we want justice, and justice means shorter hours and better food. As for freedom, well, I doubt if any ant among us would know what to do with our liberty after we got it. Most of us were born to be slaves, and first saw the light of day among the Redskins. It's all very well to talk about running away and building our new home, but the chances are that we'd have a hard time of it. We'd be fighting our way around to fight our battles for us. Besides, we are tender hearted insects, and how would we feel if we ran away and left our mistresses to suffer?"

"Dear mistresses. They have been good to us, after their fashion!" admitted ant, and the rest of the ants nodded. "What if they call us and we should not be here to answer? What if they should wish to ride and we should not be ready to carry them? What if one of them should be taken ill and we should not be on hand to nurse them? Dear me! Suppose they should be hungry and called on us in vain to bring them food? If we had all this to think of, could we be happy in our freedom?"

"No, no, sister!" some of the Black Ants felt to sobbing and wiped away their tears. "Freedom is not for us! We should have no peace of mind away from Red Ant Hill!"

In these more advanced days of machine guns, gangsters, "pine apples" and pistols it is eminently fitting that Tammany Town's two most brilliant lawyers, in vendetta, should swap participles at 20 paces.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

18. General von Steuben—The Battle Of Monmouth

IN THE MORNING OF JUNE 28, 1778, THE ADVANCE GUARD OF WASHINGTON'S ARMY, LED BY THE INCOMPETENT GEN CHARLES LEE, ATTACKED CLINTON'S BRITISH ARMY AT MONMOUTH, NEW JERSEY.

(Copyright, 1930, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

LEE BUNGLED THE ATTACK AND, WITHOUT INFORMING WASHINGTON OF THE TRUE SITUATION ON THE FIELD, ORDERED HIS TROOPS TO FALL BACK. WASHINGTON GALLOPED UP, LIVID WITH ANGER, AND DISPLACING LEE WITH A STINGING REBUKE, STAYED THE AMERICAN RETREAT.

VON STEUBEN RODE FORWARD AND RALLIED THE BROKEN COLUMNS. THE FAMILIAR, RINGING COMMANDS OF THEIR OLD DRILLMASTER INSPIRED THE SOLDIERS, AND THEY FACED ABOUT AND RETURNED TO THE FIGHT AS COOLLY AND STEADILY AS IF THEY WERE MERELY AT DRILL.

WASHINGTON BROUGHT UP THE REST OF HIS ARMY, AND, AFTER A FIERCE BATTLE WHICH RAGED ALL AFTERNOON, THE BRITISH WERE HURLED BACK AND DRIVEN FROM THE FIELD. THAT NIGHT THE REDCOATS FLED PRECIPITATELY TO SANDY HOOK ON THE NEW JERSEY COAST.

NEW CASTLE TRIUMPHS OVER WASHINGTON, 29-19

Francis Wanio And Luther Rowe Feature In Their Final Game On Friday

Coach Bridenbaugh's Quintet Comes Through In Fine Form In Twelfth Win

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 31.

New Castle high school basketball team registered victory No. 12 on Friday night when it defeated a determined Washington high quintet here. The final score was 29-19. Francis Wanio and Luther Rowe, who played their final contest as members of the New Castle team, were the outstanding stars.

New Castle opened up with a puzzling attack in the opening period, scoring 12 points to four for Washington. In the second stanza the Coach Hank Day machine held the Tin City boys to but three points while they secured four. The first half found New Castle on top by a 15-8 score.

Washington again outscored the Bridenbaugh machine in the third quarter when the Day boys came through with nine markers. The best New Castle could do was register six in the third stanza, which ended 21-17. In the final quarter New Castle managed to hold the small advantage it piled up in the first quarter and the result romped home with a 29-19 victory. The victory was the 12th of the season for New Castle.

Wainio-Rowe Star.
The work of Wanio and Rowe was the chief factor in the triumph for New Castle. Wanio found the hoops for six field goals while Rowe scored three. These boys played their final game on Friday and they sure made a glorious ending. Lasky, at center played his customary good game and scored twice from the field. McAuley also tallied twice.

The work of Graff and Moriarty was outstanding for Washington. The next game for New Castle comes on next Tuesday night at Zellenople when the Tin City cagers meet Zellenople and the first result of the second half in section three.

The summary of the game follows:
New Castle 29 Washington 19
Wainio ..... F ..... Loucks Rowe ..... F ..... Moriarty Lasky ..... C ..... Selway N. Uram ..... G ..... Graff McAuley ..... G ..... Anderson

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

"If my time is up, I'm ready to go. There's no use guessing."

Captain Malcolm Campbell, British speed star, said that as he tinkered with his giant Campbell-Napier machine on the sands at Daytona Beach, Fla., just before attempting his latest assault on the world's speed record for one mile.

And in no better words could Captain Campbell have expressed the mental attitude that enables race drivers to place their life in jeopardy each time they take to the wheel of their throbbing steel-lunged steeds. Spartans of sport, these great drivers, and also sportsmen's greatest fatalists. They have to be: "I've seen it in front of me so many times," Campbell continued, "I guess I'm a fatalist."

He is! To Captain Campbell—is that invisible shadow crouching unseen on the white sandy stretch of Daytona Beach, where the song of spring is the roaring melody of steel monsters, hurtling through space in pursuit of a wrath which fades as quickly as caught—the world's land speed record.

It is death, extinction in a chaos of flame, smoke and wind-lashed fury. The crushed, young body of Frank Lockhart into the churning surf off the beach, spun Lee Bible to down from his rocking, fire-crowned racer, tracked Ray Keech to a Pennsylvania speedway and Sir Harry Greave to a placid English stream—and got them.

Death is man's greatest foe, but when there are men like Captain Campbell who, having seen the dread image spring up before them only to escape by hair's breadth, return for another challenge, man has won another victory over fate.

Captain Campbell's goal at Daytona Beach this spring calls for a speed of 240 miles an hour. The existing record, set by the late Segrave, is 231.362 miles per hour based on the late knight's mile and return performance on the beach sands in March, 1929.

Sgrave drove his Golden Arrow at a 15.55-second clip for the mile and at 15.57-second speed on his return trip. His average therefore, being 15.56, this totals for a full hour 231.362 miles.

To reach his 240-mile-an-hour goal Campbell has but to clip two-fifths of a second off Segrave's time. The Bluebird, a fantastic but sleek-looking machine of tremendous proportions (it has 1,450-horsepower), is expected to do a mile in 15 seconds, which would be a total of 300 miles an hour. But Campbell isn't thinking in terms of such speed—just yet.

"I'm here in hope of breaking the old record, that's all," he says "What my car can do I do not know. But I'll find out."

And it's a good bet he will.

St. Mary's A. A. Too Fast For Youngstown Team In Game Here—45 To 24

FRANKLIN JONES ARE BIG STARS

The St. Mary's A. A. basketball team defeated the Patrician Club of Youngstown 45 to 24, in a game played at the St. Mary's Auditorium on Friday night. The locals took an 8 to 1 lead in the first quarter of the battle and never headed.

The fine work of Bruce Franklin, Mike Kulich, and "Bub" Jones gave the locals their victory.

Jones and Uhle put up such a staunch defense of the basket that the visitors were forced to shoot from the middle of the floor and consequently only had eight field goals.

The locals rang the bell exactly twenty-one times. The Saints had their shooting eye on the hoop all night shooting eye on the hoop all night.

Locals Lead At Half
The end of the first half found the locals ahead 17 to 9. At the end of the third quarter the Saints had a much bigger lead at 29 to 14. In the final period the locals blasted their way to sixteen more points while the Patricians made but ten points.

The entire St. Mary's A. A. team played better basketball last night, than they have this year, and there was a more marked improvement in team-work. The passing of the locals bewildered the Ohioans.

Father Nee director of the team made three substitutions in the game, sending Franklin, Mancine and Volesko to the floor, and all of the boys played great basketball.

For the visitors the work of Welch and Sheetz was the best.

Near the end of the fray Thiel subs took over the task of holding the visitors at bay, which they did competently. The score at the half was 13-9 in favor of the Pennsylvania team.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Jack Kid Berg of England defeated Herman Perlick of Kalamazoo, Mich., in a 10 round bout last night at New York. The battle was featured by plenty of action and an almost complete lack of heavy punching. The Briton is credited with holding the junior welterweight championship in practically every state but New York. Tony Herrera, whose father is Scotch and mother Spanish and who got his start in this city fought a 10 round draw with Sammy Dorfman in the semi-final. Herrera had Dorfman on the verge of a knockout several times, but was saved by the referee. Kid Francis and Pete de Grasse fought 10 chapters with the former taking the decision. Berg has beaten Perlick several times but it was Herrera's first battle in Madison Square Garden.

While the Madison Square Garden settees were under way Jimmy Kelly was dropping a 10 round battle to Billy Rose of Cincinnati at Pittsburgh. They are junior welterweights. At East Liverpool, Teddy Yarosz, a welterweight of Aliquippa, copped the decision from Mickey Fedor, one of the trial horses of the tri-state vicinity. Another who is well known here would go to better with Johnny Banko in another whirl. He doesn't deny he was clipped on the chin but says that when Walter "pushed down to the mat it had more effect than the punch." This is problematical of course and would not coincide with the views of Sanko and his pilot, Bobby Letera. Terry also intends chasing Billy Mido after the banterweights of this section.

Alf Engel, Salt Lake City and Lars Haugen, Lake Tahoe, Cal., tied at 221 feet for a new world's record ski jump at the Southern California winter sports carnival at Big Pine Recreation camp, Calif., yesterday.

Johnny Doe, well known golfer, entered the Matrimonial league by marrying Dortha Scudder, yesterday at Newark. Desmore Shute, Columbus, shot a 66 over the Breckenridge course at San Antonio yesterday to lead the first round of the 1931 annual $10,000, Texas open tournament.

Three odds-on favorites scored victories at Hialeah Park, Miami, Friday afternoon. Dove accounted for the second race, paying $3.50 for $2. Christmas captured the third race to pay the short odds of 55 cents on the dollar to win. Sun Mask backed down until he paid $3.70 for $2 and won the six furlongs event in 1:12 3-5.

KEEPING It Hot

Stove League Gossip

J. P. Morgan—not the Will Street banker, but the father of Eddie, Cleveland Indians' bright young first baseman—says he hopes Eddie will stick to his determination to quit baseball for business.

Eddie was a holdout this year until his voluntary retirement, which he says is permanent. Morgan, the younger, declares he will stick with the box manufacturing business in his father's factory at Jenner, La.

"And I do, too," insists J. P. "I have no one to succeed me save my boy. We have a good business and I know that within a few years his income from this factory will exceed what he could earn as a ball player."

"Eddie has promised both mother and me that he is through playing ball. And he's the kind of a lad who would never go back on his word. Anyway, he wants to learn this box business thoroughly."

When Morgan first announced his retirement he was greeted by the usual laugh. However, these statements by his father put a far more serious complexion on the matter.

At that, Morgan's retirement may not be permanent, after all, for in concluding his discussion of his son's plans the elder Morgan admitted somewhat ruefully that springtime may overcome Eddie's resistance.

"However," concludes the elder Morgan, "I am afraid that when the Indians come to New Orleans for spring practice and Eddie sees his old pals again he'll be liable to come to us and say: 'Listen, folks, let me play just one more year!'"

No Matter His Size, He's a Giant Now

Johnny Adams, former star pitcher of the University of Richmond, has realized the ambition of every baseball player—a chance in the big leagues. He'll be one of John McGraw's New York Giants this year if he can survive the training camp tests.

to his record. All of which goes to show that young Mac knows his bowling from the "b" to the "g".

If you was one of the motorists who were out driving last night, there will be no need for you to read this paragraph, for you will know better than written words can tell, what an awful job driving was. It was the snow's fault. It stuck to the windshield like a wad of gum to a theater seat. It was a chance for wise drivers to try out all those remedies we have heard so much about—alcohol didn't seem to help, neither did oil. One local man stopped at a store and bought an onion, cut it in half and rubbed it on the windshield. Snow seemed to like that and stuck tighter than ever!

There are several local people who have often wondered just what the court, enclosed by a cement curb, in a North Cedar street yard, was for. It is a "roque court" and was built by Dr. C. W. Davis, who was once the champion roque player of the United States.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stocks Drift Downward To Slightly Lower Levels

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—After holding fairly steady in the first hour, stocks drifted downward to slightly lower levels today under the weight of profit-taking and week-end short selling. Losses of a point or more were recorded in the active Industrials, while the Specialties moved through a slightly wider range.

After moderate progress in the business recovery was made, the week according to Bradstreet's week-end survey, while Dun's points out increasing activity in the wholesale markets. In some cases orders are running ahead of a year ago.

The violent churning around of the market specialties in the last day or two is not to the liking of the marks of a distributing move and a prelude to a severe shake-down in the stocks affected, if not in others also.

Auburn Auto was under pressure today. Dropping off to 137 1/2, a loss of 4 1/2 points and a dip of 10 1/2 points below yesterday's high price. Worthington Pump held out more firmly against the shorts, and moved up about 2 points to 83 1/2.

The Gas and Electric Light stocks, as also the Utility Holding Company shares were unable to withstand selling without further short dips into lower price ground. United Corporation was active around 20 1/2, down 1 1/2 from the high of the week.

Study Shows Operation Throws Fight On Germs To Inadequate Sinuses

Doctor Says Tonsillectomy Lessens Rheumatism, Sore Throats, But Increases Tendency To Ear Infection

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The latest report on the end results of the removal of tonsils and adenoids lies before me. The children studied were in three groups. One of 1,000 children had the tonsils and adenoids removed at the age of five or six years. The contrasting group had not had tonsils and adenoids removed. The two groups were examined several times, the last time at high school age. The children all lived in the same city and went to the same schools—climatic and environmental influences, exposure to infection, etc., were the same in the two groups. The third group consisted of 2,400 children examined three years after tonsillectomy.

The claims made for removal of tonsils and adenoids are that it will tend to prevent rheumatism, head colds, sore throats, and lessen susceptibility to diphtheria and scarlet fever. The further claim is made that it involves little danger and takes nothing away from the child that is needed. The popularity of the procedure is well known. In city populations 50 per cent of children have had the operation. No other medical procedure, with the exception of smallpox and diphtheria vaccination, is so frequently done.

Many of the above claims were apparently substantiated by the survey before me. There was a definite reduction in the number of sore throats. Enlargement of the glands in the neck are much less frequent after the tonsils have been removed. Scarlet fever and diphtheria are less frequent. Rheumatism fever is 30-50 per cent less frequent. Rheumatic fever is 30-50 per cent less frequent if tonsils are removed before any attack of rheumatism ever has been experienced. When you consider that rheumatism is the most important cause of heart disease later in life, that is a big item. After an attack of rheumatism removal of tonsils is not likely to lessen the number of recurrences.

The claim that removal of tonsils is entirely without bad results is, however, not entirely true, according to this report. It is generally agreed that sinus disease of the nose is more frequent after the operation. Head colds are much more frequent. This is easy to understand when it is remembered that the tonsils and adenoids tend to remove germs from the air breathed in. If they are gone this work falls upon the sinuses, which are not entirely adequate to it, and hence easily become infected.

A thing I have long suspected is that infection of the middle ear is more frequent in children whose tonsils and adenoids have been removed. I believe the lack of tonsils and adenoids definitely predisposes to ear infection. The appalling amount of mastoid disease today is certainly greater than it was before tonsils and adenoids were removed so regularly.

Water Pressure Poundage Given

Amount Of Water Which Supplies Lines Figures In Pressure

New Castle Water company officials, in reply to a councilmanic query told council of the water pressure in the Park and Boyles Avenues district and the Butler Avenue Street section. The company was asked to furnish statistics after Blair Strip Steel Company had communicated with council relative to the pressure in the water lines.

In the Park and Boyles Avenue section the pressure is from 45 to 55 pounds and in Butler Avenue-Cascade Street section, 40-55.

The pressure depends upon the elevation, the letter stated and the amount of water in the reservoir and "standpipe" is related to the pressure.

When the reservoir is filled the maximum pressure at Park and Boyles Avenue vicinity is 55 to 80-100 pounds. This water comes from the reservoir.

The maximum pressure of the Cascade Street-Butler district lines is 56 to 100 pounds. The water is fed the lines by the "standpipe" system.

The statistics were secured after a 24 hour reading.
